Erasmus Intensive Programme

St. Poelten (Austria)
http://inclusion.fhstp.ac.at/indosow

The intensive programme “The internationalization of social work and social policy in theory and practice” is coordinated by the St. Poelten University of Applied Sciences (Austria) with partners from University of Ljubljana, Faculty of social work (Slovenia), Alice Salomon University of Applied Sciences ASH (Germany), Anglia Ruskin University (UK), University of Milano-Bicocca (Italy) and University of Jyväskylä (Finland).

The 10-day intensive programme is specially designed for doctoral students of social work but also for other postgraduate students from the field of social sciences and humanities who have a special interest in comparative social work and social policy research on a higher academic level. The main activities of the intensive programme 2013 will be plenary lectures (within the main courses), thematic workshops, peer groups discussions, case study presentations, field visits and reflections.

The lectures at the University of Applied Sciences St. Poelten will be held in English and will cover three main topics:

1. Key issues in research methodology of international social work and social policy,
2. Structure and dynamics of world society with special attention to the role of Europe and the action spaces of social work,
3. Human rights and vulnerable groups in world society and in Europe.

Within these main topics the IP 2013 will pay special attention to the intersectionality of migration, gender and care in social work. Students who successfully complete all three courses, with the complete use of the teaching material and fulfill the written assignments as well as oral requirements will be credited with 15 ECTS for the IP 2013.
